The High Cost of Weeds

Actual evidence of the loss in value of weed-infested farm land is shown in an extract from the report of an inspector visiting a certain farm for leasing purposes. In his report, this inspector says: "It is badly infested with new thistles and all the farms in the neighborhood. I have valued $1,000 less than I would if clean of this weed."

This $1,000 represented 12 per cent. of the value of the farm. Many inspectors would have discounted the value to an even greater extent.

The question naturally suggests itself: What, Mr. Farmer, is your weed crop costing you?

You may not be contemplating a sale of the land, nor considering the placing of a loan on it. For the time being the actual value of the land may be of no particular interest to you, except from a taxation standpoint. Nevertheless, the question is none the less pertinent: What is your weed crop costing you?

If you are using dirty seed, it is costing you something for seedling it. Let it be assumed that the weeds are already there and seed themselves and that the cost of seedling can be estimated. Now you have to cut the weeds along with the grain; that costs something. You have to thresh the weed seeds along with the grain; that costs something more. You have many pounds of weed seeds along with the grain to the elevator; more cost. You pay elevator charges on the total weight; another cost. You pay freight on the weed seeds along with the grain; added cost. These are direct outlays. Have you ever taken time to figure up these costs? Their total would surprise you. And, by the way, having borne all these costs, what sum of money do you realize for the weeds thus raised and marketed by you?

Just, apart from these direct costs, what is the total indirect cost of your annual weed crop? How much loss and detriment did these weeds extract from your land? How much moisture did they consume which would have given additional strength to your grain? How many extra bushels of wheat or oats or other grain per acre would you have realized from your land if it had been clean of weeds, and you had been producing grain only instead of an unmarketable mixture of grain and weed seeds?

But, you argue, there is another side to the weed account in your farm ledger. It costs something to get rid of weeds and to keep land free of them. Perfectly true. And if you have permitted your land to become badly infested, the initial cost of weed eradication will be heavy. In fact, you may have hastily concluded that it is cheaper to go on raising weeds and grain together than to make a fight against the weeds. It is well to remember, however, that year by year the weeds will become more numerous and the grain smaller and smaller.

Then, too, the day may come when you will want to sell the farm, and you will discover that a weed-infested farm invites few buyers and a low price. Furthermore, it is safe to predict that if you continue to grow weeds and thereby automatically reduce your grain yield, the time is coming when you will be forced to apply to a Company for a loan. Then Mr. Inspector will report that he values your land at from 10 to 20 per cent. less than he otherwise would if it had been free of weeds.

The most expensive and the least remunerative crop any farmer can raise is a crop of weeds; yet thousands of Western farmers are engaged in the losing business. Why? Because they have never taken the time to reckon up the cost, or because of shilliness, or downright laziness. Possibly ignorance is the cause, the farmer failing to realize that allowing weeds to grow and flourish on his land means just as much work for himself in the long run as is involved in fighting them, while the cost of growing weeds is many times greater than the cost of eradicating them.

And if the cost and loss to the individual farmer is so great, it is, it is, in the aggregate, to the municipality, the province, and the Dominion so enormous as to stagger the imagination.

Fight weeds as you would fight fire. Fight even harder, because you can insure property against fire, but you cannot insure against weeds. The only insurance against weeds must be provided by your own labor. It will prove one of the best paying of all your farm efforts.

When suffragettes in London held a demonstration recently with banners flying in Trafalgar Square in support of Premier Baldwin's so-called "flapper vote bill," a measure granting the ballot to all women over 21 years of age. The demonstration was led by Viscountess Rhonda, who described the meeting as "the last great suffragette demonstration."

Many of the suffragettes were present; among them Mrs. Deane, Mrs. Pugh, Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Hillmont Paveitt.

Immigrants Pouring In

Population Being Increased at Rate of One Thousand a Day

Immigration to Canada in the month of May this year totaled 23,441, according to a statement issued by the department of Immigration and Customs. This is an increase of 29 per cent. over May, 1926, when the total immigration to Canada was 18,161, and 73 per cent. over May, 1925, when the total immigration to Canada for that month was 13,235.

In May of this year 5,641 Canadians had gone to the United States (including to remain there permanently) returned to Canada, desiring their intention of staying in the Dominion. These are not included in the immigration figures.

Immigration for April and May of the year totaled 29,752 or almost 1,000 persons per day for the two months.

King George Enjoys the Love and Esteem Of the People

In the reception accorded King George and Queen Mary when they drove through the East End of London recently, on the thirty-fourth anniversary of their wedding, it is to be seen the most conclusive answer to those who would have the world believe that the British nation is tired of its limited monarchy. King George is today more popular than ever before, and his Consort also enjoys the affection of the people in a deep measure. The reason for this is that both the King and Queen have taken pains to get into personal contact with all classes of the people.

Following the most popular monarch who ever sat upon a throne in this country, King George, always a man of refinement and given to quietude, facing a task the supreme duty of his life, he has been able to do much to check undesirable developments in the social life of the country. The whole Empire has rejoiced the cheers of the people in wishing their Majesty many years of continued felicity yet to come—Monarchist.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

At the girls' baseball game here last Thursday evening, many were heard to remark upon the vast improvement the girls had made in their playing since their last appearance in public.

There is a reason for this. We are informed that for the past few weeks Mr. A. R. Ballantyne, an old baseball enthusiast, has taken an interest in the girls' club and has been coaching them in the rules and fine points of the game. As a result they put up a real snappy game both at bat and in the field. Several of the girls show rare ability at this game and if they keep on improving as they have this season they will be on a par with the Edmonton girl basketballers.

It is a pity some old football enthusiasts do not interest them selves in getting a junior club organized here. If there is not some interest taken in this matter soon it will not be long till Redcliff has no senior team. There is abundance of material here to start a junior team. All that is necessary is for someone to take the lead. The need of a junior team from which to draw players for the senior games in cases where it is impossible to get a full line-up, was never more noticeable than this season, where there have been so few reserves from which to choose. On several occasions if it had not been for a few boys who knew a little bit about the game the seniors would have been right up against it for recruits.

We could easily mention several men who are exceptionally well qualified for some of the young boys together and teaching them the game.

Mr. Ballantyne has set a good example which might be followed by enthusiasts in all lines of good wholesome outdoor sport for young and old, boys and girls.

BRITISH INTEREST

It is gratifying to Canada to find that the realization is coming more forcibly home to the people of the British Isles that they have not been playing the part they might in furthering of Canadian industrial enterprise and that it is very desirable from many points of view that they should have more of a hand in this in the immediate future. Missionaries have been busily preaching this on both sides of the Atlantic, and there has been no lack of advice either from Canadian experts who have made a study of the situation in British industries, or those who have similarly made close investigation of Canadian conditions as to how this was best to be effected.

The prospects for the development of the Lake St. John district of Quebec at the hands of the powerful British syndicate, including Sir George Courthope, M.P., and Lord Gairnsford, president of the British Federation of Industries, are bright, and it is felt that in addition to the comprehensive development for which they will be responsible their example will act as a stimulus to the flow of British capital to Canada. The country expressed itself amazed with the possibilities of the region in mining, water powers, pulpwood and agriculture, and was returning to England deeply impressed with the opportunities for the profitable employment of British capital in the north country.

"It is time for British financial men to awaken to the opportunities in Canada, before the United States steps in and snaps up all the best propositions," stated Sir George Courthope. "There is still an abundance of these, but time should not be wasted, and we are returning to the Old Country as enthusiastic advocates of Canada as a field for industrial investment and the necessity of immediate action."

There are many indications of an awakening interest in Canada by Old Country leaders in all branches of business activities, as well as in Empire co-operation. Not the least of these are the recent visit of Premier Baldwin to this country. On several occasions Mr. Baldwin spoke of his desire to find a place in this land of opportunity for the unemployed in the Old Country. Although he referred principally to the occupying of our vacant farm lands, reference has also been made to the possibility of appointing a British minister to Canada. This is felt to have an industrial significance as the policy of such an appointment has been endorsed by leading manufacturers and importers in Britain. The idea, it is said, is not a policy of enlargement of the Canadian market for British goods but rather for the establishment of branch factories in Canada; this is spoken of as another means of solving Britain's problem of surplus population.

There is cause for gratification in the apparent increasing anxiety of the British Isles to have a larger share in Canadian industrial expansion. Inevitably a period of unprecedented development is ahead of Canada, unless all signs fail. To some extent it rests with British capital as to who will be responsible for this and who will share in it.

When a new baby arrived at a home lately little Johnnie asked that father if he turned the old one in on the deal.

A U.S. newspaper heading says: "Police find fifteen gallons of home-brew in vacant building." They were lucky to save the building.

De Valera and his party have decided to take the oath. And the Cosgrave government will be governing so that's another even break in the Irish situation.

Women who fought for equal rights cannot find fault with those offensive men who are more interested in what the Prince of Wales wears than in what he says.

While some centres are still planning to create or improve auto camps, along comes Medicine Hat with a plan to provide parking space for flying machines. We surely are living in an age of rapid development.

The Dominion government is acting wisely in taking steps to stop any speculation in town lots at Fort Churchill, the newly selected terminus of the Hudson's Bay railway. The government evidently realizes that this old practice has put many towns into cities on the hummer.

Another result of the dilly-dallying with the Sacco-Vanzetti case in Massachusetts is the bombing of the home of a man who acted on the jury seven years ago. If this case had been decided one way or the other six years ago, both the crime and the accused would have been forgotten five years and eleven months ago.

Experiments to treat prevention by means of spraying chemical over wheat fields from airplanes is about to be tried out in Manitoba, under the direction of the Dominion Government Department of Agriculture. The chemical used is merely sulphur in a colloidal state, technically known as "Cela." It is said that one "plane can treat 4,000 acres a day, flying at a height of 50 feet. The machine will carry 100 lbs. of chemical in the mechanical spraying apparatus.

"Austrian bakers have discovered that with the use of Canadian flour they can make more and better bread. The prohibition of night baking also favors the employment of 'day-labouring' says the Commercial Intelligence Journal, Ottawa. Frederick Praeger, Austrian Consul, says his country is negotiating with gratification a trade treaty with Canada; for while the war reduced Austria's population from 84,000,000 to 8,000,000, the big Vienna has still 2,000,000 to feed."

Grey Old Quebec Again Welcomes Prince

again lived up to its traditions as the historic gateway of Canada. Artillerymen lined the gun emplacements. Royal Canadian Dragoons with gilt helmets, scarlet tunics and mounted on apical horses found the mounted guard for the Royal Vintners. Men of Carleton Place, medal-bedecked presented arms to the young heir to the British throne whom men should be dearest to the Military Cross for bravery at the front.

In response to an address of welcome the Prince of Wales said that he himself might be regarded as a colonist. His arrival at Quebec was a great occasion to the Ambassador of His Majesty the King and the noblemen of the British state.

Along the terrace of the Chateau Frontenac thousands of eager faces looked over the lower town to the royal vessel. They too welcomed the Prince as the royal party stepped ashore.

The Prince, Mr. Baldwin and parties after receiving a tumultuous welcome in Montreal left August 2 from the Windsor Street Canadian Pacific Station travelling in what is undoubtedly the finest train ever assembled.

Quebec, grey old city of the past, which despite its busy life really remembers its past and retains the charm that has made it an unique spot in the continent. The King's Wharf where the parties landed might have been a royal pavilion at some counting lists brought up to date. From a tiered grandstand dignitaries of the Church and State waited to extend a greeting, princes robes and the silks of the ladies adding to the color of the scene. All with thousands of people who had gathered from all parts of the country joined in a great ovation to the Ambassador of His Majesty the King and the noblemen of the British state.

There was a fresh breeze curling the waters of the St. Lawrence as the liner steamed slowly to the wharf. The Ancient Capital daily bedecked with thousands of flags.

Russia Preparing For War

Red Army and Fleet Have Been Greatly Strengthened

A report from Moscow says that War Commander Voroshilov says in the "Week of Defense," which has just closed, the end of the feeling among the masses of false security concerning the possibility of war. All workers, he believes, now are alive to the danger and the necessity of being prepared. All eyes are turned toward the Red Army and fleet, both of which, he says, have been most recently strengthened during the past year, the great majority of whose officers are equipped ideologically as well as practically, and whose morale is on a higher plane than that of the bourgeois forces.

Finance Committee Chairman declares that the peasants will answer the British effort toward financial blockade by increasing their savings for the country's defense. He declared that the war budget, formerly forty per cent. of the country's entire budget, must be increased materially.

The week of defense was conducted like a military rally, with the closing a sham battle demonstration of gas attack, tank operations, and airplane sports.

Object To Word "Foreigner"

Ukrainians Not Ashamed of Ancestry But Consider Themselves Canadians

"We have much talk of immigration these days, and many unpleasant reflections are wrongfully made against the Ukrainian people. We have put our shoulders to the wheel. We are giving our brains and energy for the building of this country and we are willing to work and co-operate. Our children know no other land but Canada, and for these reasons we protest against the brand of 'foreigner' being applied to hundreds of thousands of Canadians and we have no reason to be ashamed of our ancestry."

So stated Dr. E. D. Dugan, of Saskatoon, addressing some 200 school children and others at the annual picnic and sports day held at St. Julien recently.

Dozens of the school had exhibited at the fair.

Canada's Flying Men Announcement that the eight Canadian flyers are competing for the opportunity to participate in the London-London airplane flight recently that Canada contributed many men to the air forces during the war and suggests that it still possesses a considerable number of men qualified to operate aircraft.

Sending Power By Radio

Francis Inventor Claims Experiments Have Been Successful

Atlantic and shallops driven by light electric motors instead of the heavy gasoline engines now used will soon be a feature of air travel, according to Nikola Tesla, inventor of the alternating system of power transmission. The motor will be carried by power transmitted by radio, in the opinion of the famous inventor. He also believes the power will be generated in huge central power stations, from which it will be broadcast freely through space to provide power for all kinds of aeronautical travel.

The motive of the air, obedient to the human mind through the application of air-driving electric cell currents and a wireless force far more powerful than the much heralded "death ray," will melt battleships and armies in the twinkling of an eye, in the opinion of Mr. Tesla. He also says such power will be used to drive irrigation projects and to operate farm machinery.

Interviewed in New York on the eve of his seventy-first birthday, the inventor announced he had proved experimentally he could send wireless power half way around the world without losing 1 of 1 per cent of it.

"When I was about nine years old I used to construct little water turbines in the stream bed, and I would down the mountain side near my home in Smiljan, Yugoslavia," said Mr. Tesla. "On one occasion I told my uncle, who was a Metropolitan in the Greek Church, that some day I would put water power appliances in Niagara Falls, about which I had read."

Mr. Tesla added to the designing and construction of the first power turbine to be placed under the famous American-American Falls, thus realizing his boyhood dream.

Canadian May Well Feel Proud Of Their National Heritage

The Chicago Daily News has the following comment on Canada's progress:

"Physically, Canada is a vast empire. Its land area is 3,693,000 square miles, making most of the nations of Europe appear like pygmies in comparison. It has 5,000 miles of Atlantic coast line and 7,000 miles of its coast on the Pacific. In sixty years it has increased its population from 2,000,000 to 15,000,000. Its tangible wealth, apart from natural resources, is more than $22,000,000,000. Its foreign trade last year was $2,300,000,000."

"Canada's chief industry, of course, is agriculture, but the country is rich in forest products, has extensive fisheries, vast potential water power, virtually inexhaustible supplies of coal, valuable deposits of other minerals and petroleum in the western provinces."

"Ottawa is a splendid capital. Toronto, Montreal and Quebec are important cities. And the great west cities lying further west, including beautiful Vancouver, are full of promise. The universities carry the Dominion's progressive educational system. The Dominion and Provincial governments are taking prompt and effective steps to bring about a more equitable distribution of the population."

"Canada's people are, of course, much like the American basic stock, the descendants of pioneers who came out of Europe, mostly Great Britain, for religious and political reasons or in search of adventure and better opportunities than the old world afforded. The similarity of race and purpose for the immigrants of the past has always marked Canadian and American relations."

"Canada has very much to be proud of on its sixtieth anniversary. And on such an even had a better neighbor than Canada has been to the United States."

Guests Of King George's

Richard Children From London's East End Entertained At Buckingham Palace

Four hundred children from London's east end were made happy by King George and Queen Mary when they were taken to Buckingham Palace on the occasion of the coronation of the king.

The children, pupils of St. Thomas's Hospital, visited the king and queen when they visited the east end recently and some were so disappointed that they shed tears. When the King and Queen heard of this they invited the children to the palace and so they came in ten of the lowest and most humble houses of the General Omnibus Company's fleet.

After their reception by the sovereign, the children were regaled with hot buns, cakes and lots of lemonade and other tasty and colorful drinks. The children were then taken to the palace and so they came in ten of the lowest and most humble houses of the General Omnibus Company's fleet.

Making 'Planes Airworthy

Must Not Be Dependent On Weather Says Commander Byrd

Ocean air liners will be multi-manned craft and will differ radically from the Fokker, "America," Byrd believes.

Even an engineering standpoint the cross the ocean type of plane is, he said.

"It will be our task now to make such ships airworthy as ships are seaworthy." We will have to perfect planes which will not be dependent upon fair weather reports, planes that can start in the face of such weather as the Levantine experience when the leaves Southampton or New York, when her commander knows he is going to encounter storms at sea.

"While two plane passengers will be crossing the ocean in planes as an everyday experience, just as they are crossing today in ships."
